MEDICATION SAFETY FELLOWSHIP

The Medication Safety Fellowship is a two-year, learning-based program designed to train pharmacists for careers in government, the pharmaceutical industry, and academia. One position is available for the 2016-2018 cycle. The fellow will rotate at Eli Lilly and Company in the Pharmacovigilance and Global Patient Safety Department, at Purdue University College of Pharmacy’s Center for Medication Safety Advancement (CMSA), and in the Office of Surveillance and Epidemiology at the FDA. The Fellow will have various educational experiences in cross-functional departments and have the opportunity to publish articles, present at local and national meetings, and work on projects relating to medication safety in a variety of exciting professional settings.
